The illustrations throughout the program are from Peg Leg: The Improbable Life of a Texas Hero, Thomas William Ward, 1807–1872 by David C. Humphrey. The book will be published in May 2009 by TSHA.

Cover: Sarah Ann Lillie Hardinge, Residence of Col. Thos. Wm. Ward, Austin, Texas, 1852. Watercolor over graphite on paper. Designed by Ward himself and built by Abner Cook, the Ward family home was completed in 1847. Situated on a hill just two blocks west of Congress Avenue, it stood out dramatically in the sparsely populated capital. Courtesy: Amon Carter Museum, 1984.3.15

Welcome to the 113th Annual Meeting

After an action-packed year unlike any other the Texas State Historical Association has ever experienced, we are returning to Austin for the 2009 Annual Meeting at the Palmer Events Center, a different venue from our usual meetings. During the year we moved to the University of North Texas in Denton, acquired a new Executive Director, Kent Calder, a new Chief Historian, Randolph “Mike” Campbell, and took on the job of publishing the Texas Almanac. You will be able to get caught up on all of these changes and explore the events that happened down the centuries in Texas in the sessions.

This year’s thirty-three sessions range from oil to water, Texas music to religion in Texas, and Texas Democrats to Texas Republicans. Become immersed in Texas history with leading authorities in Spanish Borderlands, Texas Revolution, the Civil War, and the Progressive Era. There is, as always, something for everyone—lay historians as well as academic historians.

Festivities start at noon on Thursday, March 26, with the Women in Texas History Luncheon, where Paula Mitchell Marks will speak on “When Will the Weary War Be Over? The Civil War Letters of the Maverick Family of San Antonio,” the topic of her forthcoming book, and the Liz Carpenter Award will be presented. On Thursday evening, Texas A&M Press and the Texas A&M History Department will co-host the Presidential Reception at the Palmer Events Center to welcome incoming TSHA President Walter Buenger.

Friday, March 27, begins with the Book Lovers’ and Texana Collectors’ Breakfast featuring Rick McCaslin, author of the award-winning At the Heart of Texas: 100 Years of the Texas State Historical Association, 1897–1997, that will challenge you to uncover Texas History. At noon, the Fellows Luncheon and Presentation of Awards will recognize accomplishments in Texas History. That evening TSHA members will gather for an East Texas Supper before my last address to the Association. Ya’ll Come!

Throughout the meeting additional opportunities abound: the Silent Auction, which includes private tours, rare books, maps, and objects. Publications by some of the region’s leading publishers of history and from rare book dealers will be for sale in the exhibit hall throughout the meeting.

This year, meeting sessions, banquets, events, book exhibits, and silent auction will be held at the Palmer Events Center, with accommodations available for attendees at three nearby hotels. A continuously circulating shuttle will transport attendees between the Palmer Events Center and the hotels.

Many, many thanks to the Program Committee that put together an entertaining and enlightening program: Chair Caroline Crimm, with committee members Jean Stuntz, Bruce Winders, Donald Frazier, J’Nell Pate, Jorge Iber, Diana Davids Hinton, Kenneth Hafertepe, Janet Schmelzer-Woods. As always, this program would not be possible without the tremendous effort put forth by TSHA staff members Terri Killen and Sandra Gilstrap.

When you see a TSHA staff member, stop and give them a pat on the back and a big “thank you.” They deserve it for all the hard work they have done in this extraordinary year.

Frances Brannen Vick, TSHA President 2008–2009

During his seven eventful years as commissioner of the Texas General Land Office, Thomas William Ward sought, with marked success, to fulfill the promise of free land to those who settled and fought for Texas, notwithstanding the turmoil of the Archive War. When the office seal went astray during that struggle, he designed this new one, which served until 1986. Courtesy: Texas General Land Office

Susan Bean, who married Thomas William Ward in 1844, was a year old when this print was made of her family home in Candia, New Hampshire. Deeply in love with Ward at the start of their marriage, she later sued him for divorce and accused him of verbal, psychological, and physical abuse. From: F. B. Eaton, History of Candia (Manchester, NH, 1882)

West of the Imagination
By William H. Goetzmann and William N. Goetzmann
This new edition by the Pulitzer Prize-winning historian and his son is significantly expanded and updated and shows that the West is a vibrant mirror of American cultural diversity. Through 450 illustrations—more than half of them in color—the authors trace the visual evolution of the myth of the American West, from unknown frontier to repository of American values, covering popular and high arts alike.

Texas Devils
Rangers and Regulars on the Lower Rio Grande, 1846-1861
By Michael L. Collins
This engaging history pulls readers back to a chaotic time along the lower Rio Grande in the mid-nineteenth century. Texas Devils challenges the time-honored image of “good guys in white hats” to reveal the more complicated and sobering reality behind the Ranger Myth.

Oklahoma Rough Rider
Billy McGinty’s Own Story
Edited with Commentary and Notes by Jim Fulbright and Albert Stehno
When Americans answered the call-to-arms after the sinking of the USS Maine in 1898, a wiry little Oklahoman was in the front ranks. Veteran cowboy Billy McGinty put his horseman’s skills to work as one of Teddy Roosevelt’s Rough Riders. After the Spanish-American War, he performed in Buffalo Bill’s Wild West show and won the Cowboy Hall of Fame’s Great Westemer award.

The Fall of a Black Army Officer
Racism and the Myth of Henry O. Flipper
By Charles M. Robinson III
The Fall of a Black Army Officer boldly moves the arguments regarding racism—in both Lt. Flipper’s case and the frontier army in general—beyond political correctness. Solidly grounded in archival research, it is a thorough and provocative reassessment of the Flipper affair.

“Texas, an empire in itself, geographically and historically, sometimes seems to be regarded as remote or alien to the rest of our nation. I hope in a modest way that Bayou Bend may serve as a bridge to bring us closer to the heart of an American heritage which unites us.”

Miss Ima Hogg, 1966

Bayou Bend, “Houston’s home for America’s Treasures” is the former estate of legendary philanthropist and collector Ima Hogg. Designed by renowned Texas architect John Staub and completed in 1928, Bayou Bend houses a superb collection of early American paintings and decorative arts displayed in over 20 period room settings, on 14 acres.

Bayou Bend is listed on the National Register of Historic Places for its significance to the State of Texas.
